

We've busted our

to produce the finest team of lubrication products for competition and street motorcyclists; and we've done it. But we're no strangers to hard work. For close to 30 years our technicians have been solving the most difficult and complex lubrication problems for major companies all over the world. Among Bel-Ray's achievements are: FIRST to develop liquid-oxygen insensitive lubes for NASA; FIRST to develop heavier-than-water greases; FIRST to develop one-year lubes for the kiln industry; FIRST to introduce molybdenum disulfide aluminum complex greases; FIRST to develop special coolants for the military.

Now young blood in our company has applied the experience and technical skills of our staff and facility to formulate a highly specialized line of products to meet the unique demands of the motorcycle industry. Our highly respected testing and development techniques have gone into each of these products and have yielded the finest line of lubricants on the motorcycle market today: Bel-Ray's Performance Team. This team of products has been competition tested and proven on some of this country's most grueling race courses, and you'll soon be hearing a lot more.
